Pleasanton is looking into cutting off 20 per cent of its street lights and Council Member Frank Brandes wants the city to walk a second mile: cut out 40 or 50 per cent of the lights. Is that a good idea? Other council members gave their opinions to The Times. Details, page 2.

Fed job money teases city

LIVERMORE - Federal seed money for local projects may not always be the mannah - from - heaven it seems to be, according to a philosophical dissertation in City Manager Bill Parness's budget message this year.

On one hand Parness called "commendable" attempts by the federal government to reduce unemployment by "pouring millions of dollars into grants to local agencies to sustain the cost of employ addi-

Various programs under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) brought 17 employes for temporary jobs in the past three year period, he noted. Another 22 persons were hired under the federal subsidized pay check method and will work through Sept. 30. Another allocation for temporary help is expected later this year.

However, Parness expressed concern in his budget message for the "insidious" aspect to the "federal

Following the release of all these temporary workers who will have primarily helped with new public works installations, Parness said the city would have to pick up the maintenance tab with no assurance of further funding from the feds. "This may result in an eventual impossible workload obligation," he

Parness expressed fears about possible growth of a bureaucrtic mentality among municipal management personnel who, "subconsciously or not, may begin to assume the permanence of these federally funded employes to the extent that our usual municipal operations will become absolutely dependent upon their contribution.'

He also discussed "program entrapment." which involves using federal funds as seed money to start 'some form of local service" that winds up being a local financing obligation.

Parness mentioned three programs in the newly proposed budget as examples of this federal snare which can make local agencies "institutionally addicted to the euphoria of the federal handout." Horizons, the youth service center, had its federal grant expire last year but Alameda County has continued allocating its own federal monies for the project which has matching funds spent by Livermore and Pleasanton.

Parness said any decision by the county to discontinue the funding could mean an added $54,653 expense for the two cities.

Project STEP (Strategic Team Enforcement Program) was another "good" program whose funding from Washington, D.C., ends this year. Parness wants the city to pick up the $50,000 tab that includes the salaries for two police sergeants and one regular officer.

The third program mentioned by Parness was Project SETS (Selective Enforcement Traffic Section) which is funded by California but provides for increasing local mon-

The local cost has risen from $9,600 this year to over $37,000 next year, he said, expecting an eventual expense burden to $60-65,000.

Federally funded multi purpose center may also require local monies to hire a permanent manager and for landscaping at the civic center site.

Bible college draws blank from district

Unified School District won't help to purchase the Pentecostal Bible College property, if the school board tonight heeds a recommendation from Superintendent of Schools Leo

The scenic property on College Avenue near Arroyo Road is for sale for $795,000. Improvements to the deteriorated buildings and grounds would cost an estimated $248,000 and general maintenance another $22,000, bringing the total cost to more than $1 million.

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and city had considered cooperatively buying and using the property. According to the superintendent's report, to be considered by school trustees at tonight's meeting (7:30 p.m. in the Education Center, 685 Las Positas Blvd.), "Based upon cost of the property, needed improvements, cost of maintenance, non - compliance with the Field Act (earthquake standards) and no immediate or future need of the property, the Superintendent recommends that the Board of Education not participate in the purchase of the property.

The school board will also give a third reading to their policy banning spanking in school. After more than four years' debate on the subject, the proposed policy could become binding throughout the district if it is passed tonight.

The policy says, in part: "The absence of corporal punishment in the district should not be interpreted as a relaxation of standards or expectations in regard to student behavior. It is the board's belief that the home, rather than the school, is the proper environment to administer corporal punishment, if administered at all.

'It is within the home that such factors as fairness, consistency and emotional and psychological well being of the student can be given the proper long - range attention.

"In order to ensure a proper

Funds will build new city hall

LIVERMORE — Following a brief public hearing last night, city council unanimously agreed to spend $1.1 million in federal revenue sharing funds over the next 33/4 years to build a new city hall.

Most of the half dozen residents testifying seemed to agree on a need for a city hall, but they favored al-ternative sites such as the Pentacostal Bible College or the Fifth Street

School. The new city hall is slated to be constructed at civic center site and will be the second story on top of the present police department. Another suggestation was to use the money as a fund for a city self - insurance program. David Eller asked for a one month delay in the decision to allow school board and park district discussion on the college purchase slated this week. Councilman John Staley said Congressman Pete Stark told him this week that Congress almost did not renew revenue sharing and he expected this to be the last large block of money coming into the city in the Prior to the vote, Mayor Helen Tirsell warned against removing property from the tax roll. She said the reason a new city hall is being built is that most of the offices are separated. "We have the same problem with the bible college.'

Woman is named head of district

DUBLIN — Wearing a bright yellow pantsuit, Dr. Jessie Kobayashi sat modestly among the members of the audience at the start of last night's Murray School District meeting

But she had something else no one in the audience possessed — a pack-et of school board documents labeled "Superintendent."

One of the first orders of business was the announcement that the San Carlos resident will be Murray's new superintendent of schools starting August 8.

In the next two months, Dr. Kobayashi will be spending 10 days in Dublin on a consultant basis to learn more about her new assignment. She is currently assistant superintendent of the Whisman District near Mountain View in Santa Clara

She joined that district as a teach-

Dr. Kobayashi, 44, holds bachelors and masters degrees from San Jose State University and a doctorate in education from the University of the Pacific.

She and her husband and children live in San Carlos where she plans to remain commuting to Dublin.

"If I allow plenty of time, I don't consider the commute a problem," she said. "It doesn't mean that I'll be isolated from the community

She said she was looking forward to working with the district's "outstanding staff and fine leadership.

The only female school district head in the Valley, the new superintendent replaces Dr. Donald Williams, who resigned in March 1976 after suffering a heart attack. He still resides in Pleasanton.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Heinz Gewing had been named acting superintendent last December. "Seems like 20 years ago that Don Williams left," he sighed, plainly delighted to welcome a permanent superintendent at last.

Blank checks boggle business

DUBLIN — A new con game involving snatched blank checks took place in Dublin last week.

In a Dublin Chamber of Commerce newsletter, chamber president, Todd Lee, warned members about the new theft trick. He reported hearing about a wom-

Pleasanton voters rejected the 29 cent tax override proposal to add nine fire and 10 police personnel last week. Council members want to add a few public safety people, though, provided they can squeeze them

Water

More storage on Foothill

PLEASANTON - The city won approval to construct a 3 million gallon reservoir near Foothill Road and the future Stoneridge Shopping Center yesterday.

The unanimous vote of the

Alameda County Planning Commission set the groundwork for the reservoir, which will be one more big link in a series of tanks, large and small, dotting the Pleasanton Ridge and providing water for hill dwellers and the tract residents along Foothill

The new reservoir is crucial to the construction of the regional shopping center, Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby told The Times yesterday. Without it, there won't be enough water reserves to fight fires at the regional center. It means the tank will be installed prior to the shopping center.

The estimated $800,000 to $900,000 price tag on the big tub will tax the city finances sorely.

So far, the city hasn't figured out how to pay for it, but is hopeful a federal grant will aid greatly, said Sooby. Otherwise it looks like deficit financing until the rich revenues from the shopping center can expand the coffers to pay it back. One thing is certain, said Sooby. It's not an item directly assessable to the shopping center.

The new reservoir will be the biggest in the city. The runnerup is the McKinley reservoir near Kottinger Avenue, site of the alleged UFO sightings a couple of months ago. In third place in the size is the one at the end of Abbie Street with 1.5 million gallons of capacity. It's tied for third place with a reservoir on the Pleasanton Ridge at the 1,600 foot level elevation.

There are five reservoirs on the ridge — the one at 1,600 feet, plus quarter million to three quarter million gallon sizes fur-ther down the ridge at the 900 and 500 foot levels. They comprise a system which assures Longview and the more "urban" tracts along Foothill Road of enough water and water pressure throughout the big demand periods of the day.

The water is pumped up the hill from the city's and Zone 7's wells on Hopyard Road. The ridge system also serves the unincorporated area of Sunol along Kilkare Canvon.

Assembly cracks down teen rights

SACRAMENTO (AP) The Assembly dealt a triple blow to teen-agers Monday, denying 19-year-olds the right to drink, some 17-year-olds the right to vote, and 15-year-olds the right to own fireworks.

Young people have assumed the responsibility, not only of voting, but of marriage, contracts and the like. They should not be given limited citizenship," said Assemblyman Lou Pa-pan, D-Daly City, vainly urging support for his measure to lower the drinking age from 21 to 19.

Papan was also the author of a bill banning sale of fireworks to anyone under 16. It was sent to the Senate on a 54-16 vote.

A third measure, by Assemblyman Michael Worn-um, D-Mill Valley, would have allowed 17-year-olds to register and vote in primary elections if they would be 18 by the time of the general election in the

Like the drinking measure, Wornum's proposal got a majority vote but fell short of the two-thirds majority needed for constitutional amendments. Such measures also need voter approval if passed by both

The vote was 45-28 on the drinking measure, 42-31 on the voting measure. Papan said he would try to have the drinking vote reconsidered later.

Opponents contended it would increase highway deaths and teen-age alcoholism.

"This is one of the most irresponsible things we could do this year," said Assemblyman Peter Chacon, D-Coronado.

Assemblyman Eugene Gualco, D-Sacramento, said many 19-year-old boys date girls of 15 or 16, who would then have access to

But Papan said the measure might reduce pressure among some youths to break the law and drink, while also recognizing that many young people drink now despite the law. He said he chose the age of 19 because many 18-year-olds are still in high school.

Help for plump kids

"You don't see a lot of fat children," says nutritionist Nina Kiger, founder of a string of "Diet Center" offices in the area.

'Know why? They hide." The image of the plump, contented, cuddly kid is all wrong, according to Nina. Instead, she pictures overweight children as withdrawn from their schoolmates, unable to succeed at sports, shy about going anywhere that appearance counts, like the eighth

Many obese children are desperate enough to call Livermore's Diet Center office (located at 1822 Catalina Court) for help. "I wish we could help them," says sympathetic Vivian Oswald, herself a mother and manager of the local center.

'Unfortunately, we have to tell them we can't make an appointment without their parent's con-

The Diet Center's program is designed primarily for adults, so Vivian and her assistant, Linda Means, started searching for a way to bring effective dieting to the children they knew needed it. With Nina's help, they designed a program being offered at a rate much lower than the Diet Center's usual fee and designed just for children 10 - 15 years old.

The price is $17.50 per week. It includes weigh - in, vitamins and encouragement every day, plus a small "rap group" once a week for the dieters. There will also be an hour and a half workshop for parents explaining the program and helping them discover where their own responsibility lies and where the child's responsibility takes over.

Children must be at least 20 pounds overweight to be in the group. The weekly discussion hours will be designed to help children gain confidence and self - esteem as they lose weight.

"Fat people walk differently. They sit differently,"

Nina points out. One function of the meetings will be to help them move like thin people and to become comfortable with a new body image.

How to dress, how to apply makeup, tips for relating to the opposite sex will also be offered in the rap groups. "And we plan to listen to the kids. Let them share some of the frustrations and anxieties they've had all their lives as fat people.

The dieters will be urged to exercise. A morning walk or bike ride sets the metabolism in motion, says Nina, helping to burn up calories all day The children will be taught to take their pulses, to determine what effective, heartbeat - increasing exercise really is. Some other tips for dieting children:

-"Don't talk about your diet to your friends. Thin people have no conception how long it takes to lose weight. They're waiting to see you drop 10 pounds

-Eat on smaller plates so it looks like more. — Don't think you should have the same things to eat — like a double - dip chocolate cone — as the kids

Never go to parties hungry. Before leaving home, have some of the foods you're allowed on your diet; then you'll be able to resist the party goodies that could spoil your diet.

- Get out of the junk food snack habit.

There will be a strong emphasis on cutting back carbohydrates and practicing sound nutritional habits. Relaxation techniques will also be taught.

"If a child is mature enough to take responsibility for what he or she eats and is really motivated, promises Nina, "by the end of the summer that child can be nice and thin.'

A $14.7-billion state budget, with less money than Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. wants for prison construction and more than he wants for state employes, was approved by the Assembly Monday. While the vote was little

Planners study office zoning

Specific zones for offices in Livermore could become a reality after a planning commission public hearing to-night and if the proposal is later approved by city council.

The zone proposed to become a part of the city's general plan, would include East Avenue between South Livermore Avenue and Maple Street, North L Street between Chestnut and Elm streets, and the northeast corner of Holmes Street and Concannon Boulevard.

Also to be discussed by the planners is the possible updating of standards for a proposed neighborhood shop-ping center at Murdell Lane and Stanley Blvd, a conditional use permit request for an auto tune up facility at 1619 First Street, and a conditional use permit for a real estate office in a residence at 5846 East Avenue.

Commissioners will also consider a new policy to consider possible general plan amendments only at the first meeting of April, August and December instead of irregu-

Assemblyman Floyd Mori stated a message on the subject in the current Dublin Chamber of Commerce newsletter.

"One of my contributions to this effort is the introduction of A.B. 1050. This measure proposes to change the name of the California Job Creation Program to the California Office of Small Business Affairs. In doing so, my bill would also impower it to make long-term loans for establishment or expansion of small businesses, requiring that technical assistance be provided by the office as a part of the loan

Solons set hospital, tax debate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Property taxes and hospital beds — two of the biggest pocketbook issues in California — confront state legislators in important committee hearings this week.

committee hearings this week.

Both subjects are before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, which will consider whether the state should regulate hospital costs and what kind of property tax relief it should provide.

Also on a crowded legislative calendar are crucial hearings on Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s prison sentencing bill, proposals to restrict the farm labor access rule and lower the drinking age to 19, a possible Senate vote on an override of Brown's death penalty. Senate vote on an override of Brown's death penalty veto, and the first two floor votes on the state budget. Committee action is expected to add about $200 million to an $800-million-plus property tax relief bill backed by Assembly Democratic leaders and also reshape the bill's tax brackets to help low and moderate-income taxpayers.

The proposal outlined by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy stops short of full-scale indexing advocated by Republicans, in which tax brackets are adjusted upward annually to keep up with inflation.

Instead, McCarthy, D-San Francisco, is proposing a onetime upward adjustment in tax brackets to make up for past inflation that pushed moderate income wage earners into higher brackets.

come wage earners into higher brackets.

To make up for the lost tax revenue, Democratic leaders want to add four new upper-income tax brackets, increasing the maximum state tax rate from 11 to 15 per cent. Committee chairman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, says the bill will provide relief for every Californian making less than $60,000. But so far, Brown has been unwilling to yield on higher tax brackets. The governor is sponsoring a rival, Senate-approved tax measure with about the same $1 billion price tag, somewhat less help for renters than the Assembly measure, and no change in tax brackets

Meanwhile, Brown's hospital rate regulation measure goes before the Ways and Means Committee Wednesday.

The bill by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, fought by the powerful doctor and hospital lobbies, would set up new state commission to prescribe hospital rates the same way the Public Utilities Commission handles approximates.

mission handles energy rates.

Brown says it could cut hospital costs in the state by $200 million a year. Keene says new state figures show that Californians paid $5.7 billion in hospital bills last year — a $2.2 billion increase over 1973.

Keene also predicted that the "medical - industrial complex" would kill the bill without a "massive Brown's bill to lengthen some prison terms is facing an onslaught by law enforcement groups led by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, who want to go far beyond Brown in increasing sentences.

Last week a series of law enforcement-backed amendments was added to the bill, carried by Boatwright, in the Senate Judiciary Committee.
One of the amendments would add three years or more to many felony sentences under the state's new fixed-term sentencing law, which takes effect July 1. It replaced the 60-year-old system of indeterminate sentences, like five years to life.

Brown's aides and Boatwright have been working to get the amendments removed, because they would destroy a compromise reached with liberals and moderates on the Assembly Criminal Justice Com-

Meanwhile, a bill by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, which affected only a small part of the sentencing law when the Senate passed it, is being amended in the Criminal Justice Committee to match Boatwright's earlier bill. And another bill, by Assemblyman Bruce Nestande, R-Orange, that would repeal the new sentencing law, is on the Assembly floor.

Nestande also is sponsoring an Assembly-approved bill before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Tuesday that would ban legal recognition of homosexual marriages.

The farm labor bill, by Sen John Stull, R-Escondido, is on the Senate floor.

In place of the current access rule, which allows union organizers onto farmers' property three hours a day, the bill would require organizers to show in each case that they had no other way to meet with workers. Opponents say that would all but repeal the Proposals to lower the age to 18 have been killed regularly in the past, but Papan says he chose age 19 because may 18-year-olds are still in high school.

A death penalty override vote may come up Thursday in the Senate, but the bill's author, Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, says he'll wait until he's sure he has the need two-thirds majority. DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm very upset because I know my 23 - year - old daughter is taking some drugs, but I don't know what. We're very close and it kills me to see her wasting her life. Her husband drinks moderately, but I don't believe my daughter drinks at all. Yet, she's often either very high or like a sleepwalker. For the past year, she has been taking sleeping pills. She seems to have an open prescription. - V.W.

DEAR V.W.: It would be impossible to tell without knowing your daughter, or at least observing her behavior. I suggest you tell her you're concerned and would like to help. Since your relationship is close, she'll probably sense that you're speaking out of love, rather than as a criticism of her life style.

Barbiturates have become increasingly popular among Women who are ambitious or preoccupied with success. performance and emotional control may be more apt to use amphetamines. Apparently, drug - using men who are concerned with conflicts over success, job performance, and ambition are more apt to use marijuana, which makes them more passive.

Women, on the other hand, choose a drug that enables them to work harder to achieve the goals they may have formerly repressed or internalized.

This, of course, is all speculative regarding your daughter. If she does take sleeping pills, she may take amphetamines in the day to counteract the effect. This can become a dangerous treadmill. Drugs of any kind are an ineffective way to overcome emotional conflicts. They provide a temporary crutch

My wife and I have been taking vacations as if we were programmed by all our slide showing friends. Though we like going to foreign lands, we come home wishing we hadn't spent the money. I almost always have a migraine or a recurrence of a back problem the first week away. We've agreed that next year we'll just enjoy our back yard. This year, however, we're committed to a trip with friends. Any suggestions? - R.H.

DEAR R.H.: Pack well in advance and try to relax for at least a week before you leave. This isn't easy, but pretend you're leaving three days earlier than you actually are. I firmly believe people should plan not to leave the first day of vacation, even if they have only one week. I think the first hours of any vacation should be for real rest, rather than Frenzied last - minute packing. Pack some familiar items such as a pair of old shoes, a favorite book, a photograph, something that reminds you of home and will help you to

THE FAMILY CIRCUS. Dr. Carol Butler, a psychoanalyst, believes there's an actual psychic insult inherent in travel, similiar to the trauma of moving to a new home. Because many people have trouble with change, it helps to take along something familiar. Don't go expecting everything to be perfect. Anticipate possible overcrowding, bad weather, uncomfortable beds. Try to be flexible and accept these things as you would accept similar problems if you were home.

You may enjoy yourself more this year because you'll be going with friends. However, try to avoid enforced togetherness. Plan your trip so that you don't always have to be sightseeing or doing things together. Set it up in advance so that there will be no misunderstanding if one couple, or the two women or the men wish to stay at the pool while the others go on a tour.

Vacation anxieties are common, but by starting off rested and by anticipating possible problems, you'll be more apt to avoid your migraine or back problem. Needless to say, take the medicine you need, just in case.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate some information on Librium. My daughter has been on Librium for over six years. Will you lease let me know if a person secomes addicted to Librium or not and how does it affect a person? I have noticed quite a change in her

DEAR READER -Librium is one of the most popular tranquilizers. Its use s widespread. Early studies of the drug showed it would ame hostile monkeys. It has also been used to tame other animals, so in a way you can think of it as the taming drug. Apparently a lot of people need to be tamed

It relieves anxiety and nerousness without causing a person to become sleepy or sedated. It is usually given in the least amount needed to induce the desired effect and well below the amount that would cause sedation.

It has very few side effects as medicines go. It can cause problems in a few cases but reducing the dosage usually relieves these. Nevertheless a person on Librium should be cautious about driving automobiles or engaging in activities that require full alertness. There are two other precautions that people using Librium should take. Never use alcohol and Librium together. The effects are addictive and can be harmful. the same as using barbituates and alcohol together. And never stop your medicine abruptly as that can cause symptoms, including convulsions. Librium is not thought of as an addictive drug, despite the withdrawal response I mentioned. Nevertheless it should be used with caution in persons who are addiction prone or those who are unreliable and may increase their dosage on their own

I would like to add that any one needing a tranquilizer should not be drinking coffee. tea or colas. These contain caffeine which has the opposite effect of tranquilizers. Many cases of anxiety and nervousness in our society are really caused by drinking too much coffee. I am convinced that if everyone cut down or stopped taking coffee the psychiatrists in the country would have far fewer patients. In any case it doesn't make sense to take medicines to calm your nerves and wash them down with a nerve stimulant.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've just discovered I have borderline high blood pressure. I take medication twice a week.

My question is will taking cod liver oil make my blood pressure rise? I took it last winter and my skin seemed to have improved. It gets dry in cold weather.

DEAR READER - No. cod liver oil will not raise your blood pressure, unless you take so much in combination with the vitamin D you get in your milk and food that you develop vitamin D intoxication. In that condition you may damage your kidneys from calcium deposits in them. That could affect your blood pressure and a lot of other things.

I don't really approve of cod liver oil for your skin. If your skin is dry use any good moisturizer.

Jim: "Today's North hand is a good example. North should jump right to six spades in response to his partner's one-spade opening. If South is looking at three aces and the king of spades, this jump to six won't keep South from bidding seven. It is easy to construct a North hand with two aces and a couple of small hearts where six won't make. It is just as easy to figure out a North hand with one ace, where the slam may be a lay down." Oswald: "The great advantage of this type of bid is that it tells the defenders nothing about your hand. Thus West has a natural diamond lead against the slam. He makes it and South rattles off thirteen tricks while a heart lead would have beaten the hand.

Does Reggie need bread?

Just ask

The tipoff:

Who says ball players are only interested in filthy lucre? We hear now that Reggie Jackson Has turned down a six-figure offer to describe his first year with the Yankees "because he was simply self - conscious about doing it in view of the controversy on the team." Oh yes, he also doesn't need the

Q. In a Padres-Mets game, the Mets did not bat for the first few innings in the batting order listed by Manager Joe Frazier. When the Padres discovered the mistake, a hit was taken away. But a home Gary Lavelle, 5-2, held run by the Mets earlier in the game was allowed.

Why? — J.S., Chula Vista, Calif.

Because the baseball rules (Rule 6.07) say specifically that a batter shall be called out, on appeal, when he fails to bat in his proper turn. The key words are "on appeal." Since the Padres didn't Knepper, tied the game Stennett hit a sharp bounded four RBI's to spark host slowed down the Western note the wrong turn at bat when the home run was hit, and the next batter completed his turn at bat, the round - tripper counted officially. The burden is on the other team to discover and appeal batters who come to the plate out of order, at the time it happens. They aren't out retroactively.

Q. How may I contact A.J. Foyt by letter or phone? I am a very big fan of his and would like to follow in his footsteps I think I am mature enough to know that I want to be a race car driver. I am 14 going on 15. Mainly I would like to know when Foyt started, how old he was and what kind of car he drove in his first race. — Mike Gonzales, Pleasanton, Calif.

You can try him at A.J. Foyt's Racing Shop, 6415 Toledo, Houston, Tex. That's in A.J.'s home town. He dropped out of high school there to go into auto racing (his father was a race car owner). At the age of 42, and now a grandfather, A.J. has driven in 252 national championship races and won 55 of them. His first car, built by his father when A.J. was 10 was little more than a toy equipped with a lawn mower engine. His first race, at 15, was in the midgets at Playland Park in Houston against a veteran driver named Doc Cossey' A.J. won, but there is a suspicion Doc let him do it. He went from the midgets into stock car racing as a teenager.

Q. What year did Bill Wright, a lefthand pitcher, play with the Yankees? Was he with other ball teams and when? Is he in the Hall of Fame? -Grace Kuhn, Henry, Ill.

The records don't show any Bill Wright. There was a Bill Wight who broke in with the Yankees in 1946, was traded to the White Sox in '48 and pitched with six other major league clubs before retiring in 1958. His total major league record was 77 won, 99 lost — far from Hall of Fame class.

What is wrong with the Cincinnati Reds? Do you think they'll be able to make up ground on the Los Angeles Dodgers? — T.J., Covington, Ky.

It's still a long season, and I feel it'll still be a close race when September rolls around. But meanwhile the Reds, for two-time champs, are playing with a strange lack of confidence. For instance, by mid-May, Johnny Bench, a superlative catcher, had made twice as many throwing errors as he had made in all of '76. If I had a more definias he had made in all of '76. If I had a more defini-tive answer, I'd be managing them, and not Sparky times in the bottom of the Anders loaded the bases. Anderson.

Q. Is it true that the Super Bowl will be changed in its time slot next January? — L.T., Elizabeth, N.J. The way we hear it, CBS, which has the game, is contemplating a 5 p.m. starting time in the New Orleans Superdome, which will mean 6 p.m. for the huge Eastern audience and carry the game into prime time. It'll also mean it can jack up the comif not spectacular ball. mercial time to cost $300,000 a minute for sponsors.

Games are the slow learner's answer

It took a tailor to set educators on the right track, according to retired Pleasanton schoolteacher Inez Griffith Kenworthy. Now working as a consultant to the Pleasanton school district, the 25 year teaching veteran recalls an educator's maxim to "remember the tailor and fit the pants to the man, rather than make the man fit the pants.'

A specialist in educationally handicapped children, Mrs. Kenworthy is an enthusiastic supporter of special education for "bright children who can't learn." The first teacher to concentrate on the field in Pleasanton, she recalls that it took years of urging before the school district agreed to initiate an educationally handicapped program.

'In those days we took the special ed. kids out of the classroom," Mrs. Kenworthy says. "It's ridiculous trying to make the children fit the school, instead of the school fit the children."

Today if a child needs help in any subject from spelling to arithmetic, Mrs. Kenworthy meets with the student outside the classroom, or sometimes works with him while his classmates are busy with another subject.

"I never want to do regular teaching again," Mrs. Kenworthy exclaims. "It's so exciting to watch the kids blossom!"

A valley resident since 1950, the elementary school teacher has scrapbooks recording her years at both Pleasanton and Alisal elementary schools. A good student herself, she admits, Mrs. Kenworthy can't remember a time "when I didn't want to become a teacher.'

After her many years in the field, she is just now doing what she has always dreamed of creating games and programs that are espe-cially geared "for children who don't learn through their ears."

Although she is retired, Mrs. Kenworthy spends hours every day designing such tools as self - correctional spelling games, non-competitive math programs and easy to understand metric system charts.

"I've known some children who have been geniuses, but for some reason can't learn," stresses Mrs. Kenworthy. "Sometimes all they need is manipulative material that they can pick up and play with."

Currently working on a first through fifth grade math program, Mrs. Kenworthy aims at presenting the basics on each new concept in as many ways as possible. Every game is designed to be manipulative (something that can be changed, tactile (an object that can be felt), non-competitive, self-checking and non-expendable (used over and over again).

Because much of her student contact is within the classroom where others are working, Mrs. Kenworthy is particularly interested in creating games that are quiet, where a child can sort and match. She also advises other teachers to progress from three dimensional objects to pictures, from there to pictures and words and finally to work with words alone.

"I always forget what grade a student is in," explains Mrs. Kenworthy. "First I find out what he can do, then I make the work progressively

Once a student herself, she points out, "I learned that I just didn't like competition. We're becoming more and more aware that competition doesn't enhance learning."

Parents outside the Pleasanton school district will be excited to know that Mrs. Kenworthy plans on selling her creative games someday. Not only are they all fun to play with, but I relearned my times tables very painlessly!

HELP FOR LEARNING PROBLEMS

"Would you like to smell this fish?" Mrs. Benhard pronounces the words clearly, speaks slowly. The two students bend over the table in the spacious, peaceful room and diligently write the sentence. The two boys check their own work, the teacher questions one word. The boy corrects it without help.

Mildred Benhard is a Learning Disability Specialist in the Livermore School District. She works with children who are having problems collecting, sorting, storing or expressing information, those having problems in reading, spelling or doing their math.

It is estimated that 20 per cent of all children, usually of average, or above average intelligence, have some learning disabilities, minimal brain damage, perceptual handicaps or communication disorders.

The cause is uncertain, but it is thought they are caused by illness or injury before, during or after birth. Some may be hereditary and there are environmental causes, such as smog and food additives.

But Mrs. Benhard is not concerned with the why's and wherefores. She is interested in finding out the personal learning style of each child. and designing and using teaching methods that best serve that particular way of learning.

But Mildred Benhard dislikes the term disability. She stresses the fact that these children have learning abilities in areas that others do not, that each person is different in his or her abilities .

Her program is not just academic, but social and emotional needs must be met also. She works on building the child's self-image.

"When their self-image comes up, they can usually deal with other kids."

She states that the program combines techniques of Dr. Glasser and transactional analysis for children. The goal is to get children to be aware of their own feelings at school, with their classmates and toward their school work, to get them to know that they are responsible for their

Not all students who are having prolems with school work can qualify for the remediation program. They must have an average or above average 1Q, and they must have a learning disability.

There is a waiting list to get into the program. Teachers make referrals when there is a learning problem in the classroom. Then a team of specialists, including a psychologist, a nurse, perhaps a speech therapist, meet to plan action to benefit the child's learning situation.

"This program's greatest value," says Mrs. Benhard, "is that it brings the child into a situation where he is the real focus for the parents, the regular classroom teacher, and the special program. We examine the child's needs and desai

Many referrals to the program come from the children themselves, who say they are having difficulties.'

Working with the students who need special help, Mrs. Benhard often has only three in a group. She stresses that the groups must be kept small to really get to know the kids for intensive remediation.

She puts students together who have the same learning style. They meet four days a week for 50 minute sessions. By using a different learning style, one suited to the individual student, she reveals they can often get the student to advance two years within six months. Learning problems are not hopeless. Help is available.

LIVESTOCK, PETS

An alternative to the 'soaps'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's a show about women, by women, for women, but producer Roxanne Russell does not want her public television series "Womantime & Co." classified as a feminist show.

"We're really aiming for a broad spectrum of women who wouldn't consider themselves feminists but certainly are interested in what's happening to women these days," said Ms. Russell. "We're feminists, but soft feminists. We're not trying to preach a doctrine."

The show started two years ago at KQED in San Francisco. After a second successful season this year, 144 of the nation's 156 public broadcast stations bought the show for the 1978 season. It airs weekday afternoons at 2:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

"Womantime & Co." is the brainchild of Martha Glessing, who was KQED's membership director when she began lobbying to offer women some alternatives to the traditional daytime programming of game shows and soap operas.

The people who program for women at the networks are not at all concerned about where women really are, except to change the story line of some soap operas to incude women doctors or a segment on abortion," said Mrs. Glessing.

She said a Nielsen rating their first season discovered that "Womantime" had picked up about 10,000 homes per week from the daytime viewing market.

Madeline David, vice president of daytime programming for NBC, said about 85 per cent of daytime viewers are women and "if you gauge what they want by what they look at, they are getting pretty much what they want." She said soap operas continue to be extremely popular and experiments with some alternate kinds of programs mostly have been unsuccessful on commerical television.

The show's magazine format combines film remotes and live and taped interviews. Women guests have included California Chief Justice Rose Bird, activist singer Joan Baez and director Antonia Brico. The topics have ranged from childbirth and contraception to women artists and housespouses.

"Sign on the Dotted Line," a show on the need for women to plan their financial security, won an Emmy for outstanding achievement from the Northern California chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. The same group awarded "Womantime" a second Emmy for a show on women and religion.

DECADE MENTHOL. THE TASTE THAT TOOK TEN YEARS TO MAKE.

In the past a menthol smoker could only get real taste from a cigarette that's high in 'tar.' The problem of reducing this 'tar' while maintaining taste is enormous.

That's why, when we set out to work, we didn't give ourselves a time limit. It's a good thing. Because it took us ten years to develop a "Total System" capable of delivering truly satisfying taste in a low 'tar' menthol cigarette.

The Decade "Total System."

How were we able to keep the taste in a low 'tar' menthol when so many others have failed? Mainly by developing our unique "Total System" in which every part of our cigarette is arranged in perfect balance with each other. The tobacco, the filter, the paper, and even the menthol. Only by concentrating on these parts were we able to perfect the whole.

The Menthol. Natural menthol delivers cool, fresh taste.

Take our menthol, for example. It's all natural, not a combination of synthetics. And it has a distinctively cool, fresh taste that comes from blending different menthols imported from around the world. This extraordinary blend of natural menthol delivers a taste you'll find only in new Decade Menthol.

The Tobacco. "Flavor Packing" plus fifteen tobaccos boost taste.

Our tobacco is also unique. Its taste is boosted by a method called "Flavor Packing" which allows us to concentrate a special patented tobacco flavorant in each Decade Menthol.

The Filter. Unique "Taste Channel" gives first puff impact.

Our filtration system represents a singular breakthrough in low 'tar' smoking. Simply, we've created a "Taste Channel" within the filter to give you that first puff impact you've come to expect from only the higher 'tar' cigarettes.

The Paper. High porosity paper controls burn rate.

Even our high porosity paper is specifically designed to give an efficient burn rate that delivers optimum taste with a minimum of 'tar.'

The result. A completely new kind of low 'tar' menthol cigarette.

So try a pack of Decade for yourself. Menthol or Regular. And after one taste we think you'll agree that our last 10 years were well worth the effort.

Regular and Menthol.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.
